NUMBER 1.

Co-Operative Marketing Campaign Makes Fine Progress Last Week; Seventy Farmers Joined Bureau; Much Interest Manifested

Hon. John B. Witt, Vice-President, Alabama Farm Bureau, has been with us for a week in Coffee County, assisting in our marketing campaign. Seventy farmers joined the farm bureau during last week, and agreed to participate in all co-operative enterprises promoted and directed by the farm bureau and assisted by the Agricultural Extension Work of the Federal Government.

Mr. Witt states that he has worked in all parts of Alabama and finds the business interests and farmers generally united on the farm bureau program. Clyde Hendrix, of Decatur, is President of the chain of 17 Tennessee Valley banks in North Alabama, and is a director in the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association.

Mr. Hendrix encourages all his farmers customers to join the farm bureau and pool their cotton and buy their fertilizer co-operatively, realizing that in helping his customers save a dollar, he gets another dollar on deposit in his bank, and upon the earning power of the farmer depends his spending power.

Mr. Witt is highly pleased with the co-operative spirit of Coffee County farmers and says if he could choose another spot on earth to live in other than his present abode in Limestone County, he would certainly give the good lands of Coffee a consideration.

POWER COMPANY WINS PRIZE.

—O—

It begins to look as though Alabama is to have an epidemic of prize-winning, growing out of recognition by the remainder of the United States of the wonderful things being done in this state and out of the activities of Alabamians in bringing the state's good points to the attention of the outside world. Closely following the proclamation of an Alabama boy as champion orator of the United States and the declaration that Alabama's exhibit at the Southern Exposition in New York led all the rest, and the awarding to Jasper of the best local catalog of assets, comes the announcement that the Alabama Power Company has been awarded the Forbes Magazine public service cup in the national contest to determine which such utility in America showed most progress and enlightenment in public service and relations, and in its interior efficiency and treatment of employees.

This gives national recognition to a commendable work with which Alabamians are already familiar, because there is scarcely any part of the state which is not feeling the vivifying effects of the enormous construction and development work under way by the Alabama Power Company. The Birmingham Age-Herald, June 13, 1925.

GOODMAN SACRED HARP SINGING.

We met last Sunday afternoon and had another good singing. A nice crowd attended. Opened by chairman and had a lesson by three, three songs each. Ten minutes recess.

Then lesson by five, three songs each. Closed by Mr. John Blair. We want to thank the singers from other societies for coming and helping us. Want them to come again and bring somebody with them. We want to especially invite everybody every third Sunday afternoon to come and be with us. We have bought one dozen new books, so come if you want to know how the singing went off—don't wait to read the paper, if you do you may miss some of it.

ALMOST BURIED LIVE ONE.

Oklahoma City, June 19.—As Miss Bertie West, 16-year-old Wellston, Okla., girl was about to be lowered into a casket at Wellston today, her mother asked to see the face of her child again. When the casket was opened, it was noticed perspiration stood on the girl's forehead. "A cold heart action was then discerned. Doctors Friday expressed their belief she will recover."

The girl became suddenly ill and slumped into coma, which a physician pronounced death. Funeral arrangements were made following the supposed death. But when the casket was taken to the funeral home, the girl was found to be alive. She was taken to a hospital and is now recovering.

VIEW OF SCAFFOLD SENDS ITS VICTIM INTO MAD FRENZY.

—O—

Troy, Ala., June 19.—The scaffold on which J. C. Williams, negro murderer, will hang July 3, was erected Wednesday morning. When he heard the sounds of the building of the scaffold Williams became frenzied and when Sheriff Carroll, attracted by the turmoil, reached the death cell on the second floor, he found him pacing the floor and tearing his clothes to shreds. He had torn up his mattress and had broken the water pipe in the cell. When ordered by the sheriff to behave himself, he immediately grew quiet but bitterly denied the crimes to which he had previously confessed.

Williams is the convict who murdered three negro women in the spring, one in lower Montgomery county and two in upper Pike. He caused a reign of terror among the negroes of this section for some time. He was finally captured in Dale county, where he was working at a saw mill.

Eighty women attended the State conference for farm women at Auburn, June 16-19.

IN MEMORY OF G. W. CALHOUN.

On June 6th, 1925, the death angel visited the home of Mrs. G. W. Calhoun, and took her husband home to the glory land. He leaves his wife and three children to mourn his death, besides 17 grand children and many other relatives and friends. He was a good man and a hard worker, but has gone where there will be no more hard work to do. He has left a vacant place here that can never be filled. His dear smiling face is gone from our sight but will never be forgotten in this world. We are hoping to meet him beyond in that glory land, where there is sweet smiles and peace, and where no sorrow and no pain will ever go.

He was always kind to every body. His wife and daughter were by the bedside when Jesus took him home. He was able to go about and was stirring around all day the day Jesus took him home. He has not been able to work any year, but would try to work all day. He was a great lover of work. We miss him here on earth, but some glad day we will go and meet his smiling face which is with our blessed Jesus.

He was 65 years old the 21st day of May, and has gone to spend his next birthday with Jesus. We huddled to had to give him up, but Jesus knows best and took him home to stay with Him forevermore.

FARMER FREED OF MURDER, RESISTING ROBBERY ATTACK.

Russellville, Ala., June 23.—At a preliminary hearing here today, John Jackson, farmer, was acquitted of the charge of killing Lee Martin in repelling an attack of robbers and masked men on his home a few weeks ago. Judge Sargent of the law and equity court held the killing justifiable.

Jackson testified that he fired on the men who came to his home at night and attempted to break down the front door. Martin died shortly afterwards at his home where he was carried by companions. Neighbors of Jackson testified to seeing the robbers pass along the road.

After his acquittal Jackson stated he would move to Naomi Tenn., where his wife's relatives live. Neighbors have agreed to finish working his crop free of charge. Jackson stated that he had been warned before the killing to quit "his way of doing."

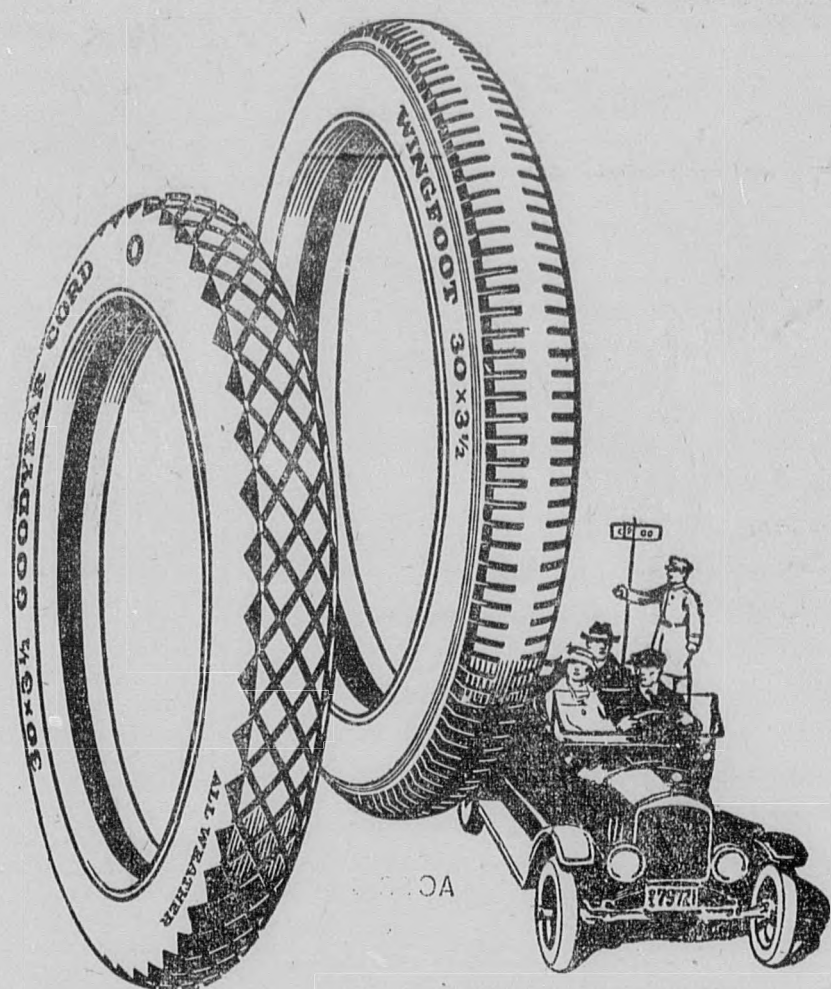

Every farmer should have enough pride in his business to cooperate with his neighbors for the improvement of agriculture and farm home conditions.

GIVE THE PUP TO THESE FISHERMEN AND SAY NOTHING.

Yazoo City, Miss., June 23.—A party of fishermen back from a trip up the Yazoo river bring a story of a lively fight between a bullfrog and a large water moccasin, and the unique method of defense adopted by the bullfrog.

The moccasin had captured the frog on the bank of a small lake, and dropped his victim for a moment to await the gathering of sufficient saliva to swallow him down. Snake and frog were within a foot of each other, and the onlookers were astonished to see the frog, quick as a flash, seize a stick, about six inches in length, lying directly in front of him, and clasp it firmly in his mouth.

A moment later the snake darted for his victim, but the stick protruding from the jaws of the frog saved him from being swallowed. The snake finally gave up the battle.

Now that crops are being laid-by plans should be made for improving the farm homes. All farm women would like to have running water and a lot of other conveniences too numerous to mention.
